

THE SUITCASE BABY

ABANDONED BABY WAS SQUEEZED IN CARRIER This two-day-old girl baby strapped in a few suitcase was found in the vestibule of a South End church. She would have been dead in another hour. The little one is being cared for at the Relief Hospital. The suitcase in which the baby was found was 26 1/2 inches long, 14 inches wide and 10 1/2 inches deep.

ABANDONED BABE SAVED BY MIRACLE

Police Seek Parents of Child Found in Suitcase in Church Vestibule

Perhaps the person who abandoned a two-week-old infant today in a suitcase in the vestibule of the German Catholic Church at Shawmut Avenue and Olin Street, in the South End, will be bitterly disappointed to learn that the tiny girl is alive.

The life of the child was saved by a miracle. Wrapped in a large white blanket, with the suitcase closed so as to make it almost airtight, the baby still had enough vitality left to emit feeble cries. These penetrated the suitcase and attracted the attention of an elderly woman who saw the suit case and heard the sounds coming from it, as she was leaving the church after services.

SAVE LIFE OF BABY From the nature of the sound, the woman was not sure what was in the suitcase. It sounded as if it might be a cat. But she decided to report the matter, and that decision saved the life of the hapless baby.

The woman went across the street to the undertaking establishment of Charles Greider and told him about it. At first he was going to call the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals. He made an effort to get the matter on the phone, but the telephone was not good, and so he called the police instead.

Sergeant John Macdonald and Patrolmen Hoffman and Caffrey then arrived. They opened the suitcase and saw what appeared to be only a

JESS WASN'T KNOCKED OUT BY FIRPO, CHARGES SKELLY

Yonkers, N. Y., July 23 (U.S.S.)—Twenty-five thousand eager fans paid their good money to see Jess Willard who met Tony in his fight with Firpo, said Jack Skelly today, in charging that the big Kanawha did not twin properly for his bout and could have continued.

"I haven't said anything before," said Skelly, "but you can tell me I did everything I could to make Willard fight and make him fight."

In the sixth round when Willard was going all right, there was talk from Ray Archer, Willard's manager, of having me throw the towel into the ring. I refused to do that.

"When Jess went down on his knees in the eighth I yelled at him to get up, but nothing doing."

"When he did get up after the count I thought perhaps he was hurt and rushed by him with something said, but he pushed me aside and pushed for his picture. After the fight he left me fast."

Each detective has sent twenty divers to its government seeking to harmonize their views on the divergent points, if it is possible.

DEATH ENDS WILD RIDE OF NURSE AND CHAUFFEUR

LEONARD IS MOTHER, 73, CHOICE IN FIGHTS TO FREE SON

Lightweight Champ Will Win Over Tendler

By JACK CONWAY New York, June 24.—Benny Leonard will still be lightweight champion of the world after we have put the family out tonight, and placed the empty milk jars on the back porch.

Lee Tendler, Philadelphia shill, will have failed for the second time in his effort to wrest the lightweight crown from Benny's ears.

Benny and Lefty Lew are billed to battle for fifteen rounds tonight under the direction of the Crowfoot A. C. at the Yankee stadium.

Johnston, matchmaker at Madison Square Garden in the days before Ted Dick Lewis, is the plot of the new title organization.

PHILADELPHIA FANS AID BACKING TENDLER TO WIN

Johnston stepped right on as the foot placed, as it were, to backing Leonard and Tendler for his opening attraction. These sensational fighters will play in a half a million dollar crowd. It is expected that the receipts for tonight's quarrel will be greater than those of the Willard-Firpo knockout.

Thousands of Philadelphians are in town waiting for the sound of the bell which will give the heavy hitting Tendler his second shot at the world's lightweight title.

The Tendler backers are of the opinion that Lefty Lew's heavy boxing will enable him to batter Leonard into submission. The point to the fact that a Tendler left hand smash almost knocked out Leonard at Boyle's Thirty Acres.

"Tendler has proved he packs the wallop to stop Leonard," said Manager Phil Glassman today.

"You may look to see Tendler force the issue from the left to right. This will enable him to get to those quarters where he will knock out Leonard with a left."

100 U. S. PILGRIMS VISIT POPE; RELIGIOUS OBJECTS BLESSED

Rome, July 22.—Four Pius today visited a party of about 100 Americans conducted by the Rev. Robert Kelly, who presented Peter's penance.

The Pontiff delivered a short address in which he thanked the pilgrims for undergoing the hardships of the journey. He imparted upon the Apostolic benediction and also blessed the religious objects carried by the Americans.

CHALLENGE TO DUEL SENT BY HUNGARIAN MINISTER

Budapest, July 22.—Premier Bethlen has challenged Count Pirovsky to a duel through dealing in for sale, under the Hungarian law.

Count Bethlen sent his words to Pirovsky after the latter had publicly declared the Premier "a scoundrel" in a speech at a public meeting.

Count Pirovsky, who is chief of "Awakening Magyars" as head of the former white organizations and leader of the irregular bands in Burgenland, has been opposing the Premier's attempts to reconcile the internal dissensions and consolidate the neighboring states.

SPEEDING CAR UPSETS IN HINGHAM

Edward J. Walsh Killed in Brookline Girl With Him May Also Die

Grim death today terminated a week-end joy ride for Edward J. Walsh, chauffeur of Braintree, married and father of a child, and also may claim a companion, Anna Parent, a nurse at the Brookline General Hospital.

A car belonging to O. C. Funderbark of Hingham, by whom Walsh was employed, crashed into a pear tree, upsetting the car on the State Road in Hingham at 4 o'clock this morning. The car turned turtle.

Walsh and his companion were taken to the Quincy Hospital, where Walsh died.

The Parent woman is reported to be seriously injured that she may die.

Miss Parent left the Brookline Hospital last evening and was due to report there again at 7 o'clock this morning.

At Mr. Funderbark's home in Hingham it was stated Walsh had

4500 TO VISIT BEACH TOMORROW AS AMERICAN'S GUESTS

WANTASKET MECCA FOR KIDDIES

Third Mothers and Children Nantasket Excursion tomorrow! Tonight over 500 Mothers will be packing lunches, babies' bottles, and other necessities in their Handy Bags and other receptacles, ready for an early start to Rowe's Wharf in the morning.

Let us suggest that every mother take a last look at the HOUSE OF SALLING as printed on her ticket, make sure of that. Then to their respective lines to get aboard on time.

The steamer can only carry 1,500 passengers each, that is the law. To miss the last one is to miss the whole day's fun.

THREE DAYS READY.

For a week or more have been telling the public that there will be THREE DAYS TOMORROW. They have been telling from Nantasket, from W. & A. M. & 11:00 A. M. General Manager Frederick Lutz, the vice president of the Nantasket Beach Steamship Company, after hearing of the hundreds who were likely to be disappointed last week, found another boat.

The Boston American while every eye is turned to how much this news paper appreciates the interest in our operating so splendidly with the American to make so many children happy. It is in our power to find three big vacation steamers any where at the height of the vacation season.

FINE DAY PROMISED.

Here is something else we want the readers of the American to know. Hundreds have written in, telephoned in and sent suggestions for tickets after the last ticket had been sold out to the Excelsior Station. It is no easy matter to run excursions of this character and it is right. But the fact that the American is so popular is a part of the whole business is to have to tell the "too late" folks that we can't do anything for them.

Again the weather must have been a good day tomorrow. Let us hope that the fine "Boston American Weather" continues as it has in the previous days.

For the sake of those who have not the details before, we again tell the readers of the American that the steamer will be "pulling with us" in this big enterprise.

RED CROSS NURSES.

One of the most interesting and appreciated features of the big trip tomorrow has been the corps of volunteer Red Cross nurses who have given of their time and experience to assist the mothers in the care and attention to children. They are capable women, all of them, and possess such valuable information regarding the medical and nursing necessities of children. They will welcome questions from the mothers.

MOXIE.

If there is not thing that appeals to a child more than any other, it is a big, round, sticky lollypop. Frank Archer, the newspaper behind the great Moxie Company, will speak to that every child is "equipped" with one of his delicious Lollipops. They are molded in the shape of the face of "Moxie Man" that every child already knows by sight.

HOOBY'S MILK.

Every Mother knows how to tell the good, refreshing and just milk in the can.

MESSAGE TO MOTHERS ABOUT DR. TRUE'S ELIXIR

At 420 W. Broadway Ave. Mrs. Henry Johnson, whose few words are worth more than any letter, a good message to all mothers. She said: "I have used Dr. True's Elixir for more than 10 years and know it is good." She says that Dr. True's Elixir, the True Family Laxative and Worm Expeller, is not for children at all. It is for the mother, for it is so good for the mother that it is hardly a child but what needs Dr. True's Elixir, for they are liable to have worms growing in their bowels. Mothers who give Dr. True's Elixir to their children will find their children will be in better health through its use.

Symptoms to watch for: Constipation, offensive stools, slow fever, biliousness, pains in stomach, red spots on tongue, swollen tongue, starting during sleep with troubles some druggists. Price—50c—$1.20.

DR. TRUE

I AM MOXIE LOLLYPOP

My sweet daddy is Frank Archer, and he sends me and 2,500 of my brothers to the Boston American's Mothers' and Children's Free Boat Ride to Nantasket each Tuesday. They say I'm awfully sweet. The kids love me. In the stores they have to pay for me, but on the boat I'm free to all the kids. They never forget the special Moxie flavor I've got. The memory lingers—and it's a pleasant memory.

Disturbed Moxie that is given FREE to our friends. Whether the day is hot, cold or just middling, the children are glad that one is given in Moxie. Moxie!

And every child is to have a beautiful colored lollypop. He says our friend Jack Quinlan, back in New England representative for the great Pioneer Rubber Co. of Willard, Ohio. They think a lot of Jack out there in Pioneer Rubber Co's home state. So much so that they won't even count the lollypops he sends down to the kids. Tomorrow he'll just have plenty. Oodles of 'em.

BERWICK CAGES.

Again the "Berwick Kidnies," Berwick and Wyckoff will superintend the distribution of their company's famous cages. The lollypops for each and every mother and child. Every day before yesterday the Berwick Cages in the stores and the lollypops that had been sent out to the Excelsior Station. It is no easy matter to run excursions of this character and it is right. But the fact that the American is so popular is a part of the whole business is to have to tell the "too late" folks that we can't do anything for them.

SAGAMORE BATH HOUSES.

What would a trip to the beach be without a swim? We can tell you it is a "must" whether we can find a swimmer or not. Anyway, every child will want to go in the water before he or she can get back. Through the kindness of the proprietors of the Sagamore Bath Houses, we have a splendid place for you all to go.

PARKMAN PARK.

You mother have heard the out-cries of the children and what you could get into that wonder what all you have to do to show your children the big to the gentlemen at the park and to go to go. The mothers are that in doesn't care how many come at once. The more the better. They are all going to the Sagamore Bath Houses. They are all going to the Sagamore Bath Houses. They are all going to the Sagamore Bath Houses.

HOOBY'S SWEETHEARTS.

For the sake of the children and the mothers who love them, we have a special message to all mothers. They are all going to the Sagamore Bath Houses. They are all going to the Sagamore Bath Houses. They are all going to the Sagamore Bath Houses.

GIRL SPENDS 10 DAYS IN WOODS

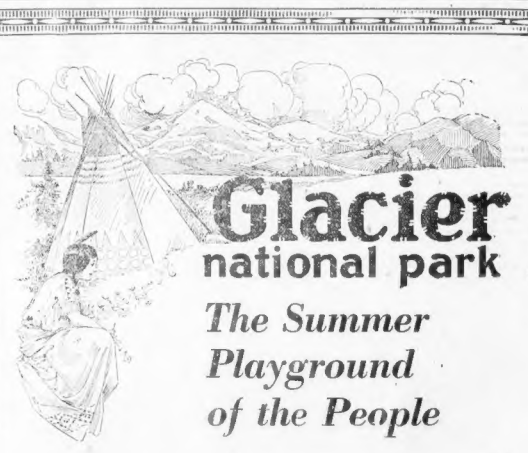

Eleven-year-old Gelia Wenzel, daughter of Joseph Wenzel, of No. 72 Woodman street, Lynn, lived in the Pennsylvania road section of the Lynn woods for ten days. Berries and stray morsels left by the pioneers were her only food.

The little girl left home, the police say, after she could no longer bear the burden of playing the role of mother to her little sisters and brothers and at the same time attending school. Her mother and a year ago.

Following her disappearance, a search was started by the police and members of her family. She was finally found by her younger sister, Annie, after the search was carried on the Lynn woods.

Pioneers, who caught sight of the little girl in the woods, advised the police. The girl's father, who was hiding in the woods, left a bundle of food near the place where the girl had been seen. He returned the next day to find the food gone.

When little Annie caught sight of her sister in the woods, her weeping melted her older sister's heart and the latter agreed to return home.

PROFILE MAPS

I have often wondered how much correct information the average person gets from the various "profile maps" and "profile globes" much used nowadays to represent both small and large portions of the earth's surface, and how much distortion is introduced. Often the disproportion between the vertical and horizontal distances is so great that a great deal of mental reconstruction is needed before a true picture of the region represented can be obtained, and then, of course, it is a picture in the mind made to take the place of the one before you. You take a look at these relief models with you on a

HEART AFFAIRS THRIVE TODAY
MONDAY'S astrological figure points to interesting and eventful occurrences. There is promise of important change or travel with benefit and steady progress. Romantic heart at home should flourish. It is a good day for the adventurous.

Those whose birthday it is may expect a change in their life; not so showy as the stunning which she has considered, but of far more practical benefit. At the time of James' accident she devoted herself with centered enthusiasm to the sufferer and his household.

"Why?" he shot at me.

"Are you Mr. Tompkins?" I inquired.

"Who else would I be? Think I have a fancy lot of clerks!" But why should I see anybody belonging to that paltering young rascal? The man growled in a voice as formidable as his secret. "Where was he at 11 yesterday? What are you doing here today?"

"You trusted Neal," I said simply. "You were right to trust him. You asked him. And the night he took him the money to close the deal his young wife was smiling a faint smile across the supper table one minute—and died the next—24

"I've cracked the big man's nut," I told them. "He said he'd tell me why he should I save your hair-brained scheme? How do I know the boy isn't a crook?" I may get twice as much money, but I'll have a term of years. What are you here for, anyway?"

"To appeal to you," I began.

"To appeal to me?" he thundered. "What's sentiment got to do with business? It's just like a woman to come here and whine about any sentimental stuff your brother's wife did and he absconds!"

In a rage I got more fully control. I looked at my face and started for the door. He wanted to go in silence. I dared not trust myself to speak, and then suddenly

"I don't know. We buried his Phoebe today—and he wasn't there." I said dogmatically. "If you liked Neal you ought to pity him."

"What's the thing and why not to do with business. Young women you're wasting my time. The your storm!"

"I'm a businesswoman. I came here to go into a vital matter with you. But—Neal may be lying somewhere—half dead—I thought you were human. So I told you about him first. That boy never touched a penny that isn't his. And you know it."

"Hoity toity, young woman, keep a civil tongue in your head," said a dry voice with something like a chuckle sounding through it. "You turn around and tell me how long an option you think I'm going to give you."

reality lying distal and behind such a representation. That would be needed to form a similar picture from numerical figures stating the facts as they are.

A similar difficulty arises when relief models of mountains, or other large terrestrial features can be represented to the mind of the maker himself.

But as soon as different scales are applied to the two co-ordinates and it becomes necessary to compare mentally a false picture that is produced there is a waste of effort and attention

"A BLACK OXEN Mrs. Atherton has produced an absorbing romance of imaginative feminine psychology. Quite the finest thing she has done since "The Conqueror". It is a story with the true quality of romance brilliantly realized. Unique in the originality of its conception. The central theme is one that comes but once in a generation. Instinctively one recognizes the story of such mental mystery, beautiful symbolism and marvellous originality." — N.Y. Herald

Medbury Says—

ONCE in a while you find a man whose earnest ambition in life is to have his breakfast in bed. This sort of guy always opens his month before he opens his eyes.

ONE fellow was so proficient that he could yawn and drink his coffee at the same time.

HIS figure that as long as he has to open his month anyway he might as well use it.

ANOTHER guy used to have twin beds in his room. He slept in one and ate his breakfast in the other.

THEN after breakfast he used to stagger by making up and down between them.

OF course he never got anywhere by waiting like this, but he didn't care, because when he started he didn't figure on going any place.

HIS had his valet serve him his cereal first and then he went back to sleep until the eggs were ready.

THE valet always withheld him pleasant dreams between each course.

HIS usually had his coffee served hot, otherwise it might keep him awake during the rest of the week.

WHEN he first started eating meat the cruise used to bother him, but he remedied this by taking a carpet sweeper to bed with him.

IF this didn't get rid of the hard crumbs then he would soak the toast in his coffee.

AND anybody knows that coffee or milk will take all the bitterness out of a crumb.

BEFORE he discovered this method he used to have his valet file the corners.

BUT this hurt the valet's dignity. He secreted away the mandarin to a place of toast.

STILL, he could have demolished the crumbs right in his own bed by wearing sand-paper pajamas.

ONCE he used to eat so many of his meals in bed that once when he walked into his dining room he thought he was in the wrong house.

THE only trouble with eating your meals this way is that whenever you give a dinner party to some of your business friends the valet doesn't know whether to set the table or make the bed.

WHENEVER you tell a person you DO NOT HATE TO TELL ALL YOU KNOW.

At all times you wonder why it is that people seem to think you are not to be treated with important information.

Why do you go peddling gossip and information that you should not give?

Look out for a rainy day and buy a taxicab. There's money in carrying passengers.

It is economical to make your meter out of the springs in the car. Save your shock absorbers for the summer when you show him the bad news. Be sure and keep your meter well oiled. It is a serious accident to have it stop working.

The madam who said that a straight line was the shortest distance between two points was an idiot. Stick to the old-fashioned religion of making short cuts around the world.

The quickest way to get a customer is to knock him down. Let him in before he recovers consciousness. Then charge him overtime for shock. Avoid chaos and escort on way home. He already picked. Avoid the intoxicated passengers are desirable. They are too meters so that you can short change them twice.

Drive fast with old ladies—they'll pay to stay in.

AN original Gallagher & Shean drawing is awarded each week to the person who submits the best lyric for this column.

One lyric is printed each day, and the best of the six gets the drawing.

From today's batch the following is selected for publication. It is by Miss Esther Cohen, No. 18 Browning avenue, Dorchester.

Oh, Mr. Gallagher, Oh, Mr. Gallagher!
Have you heard the latest scandal of the day?
All the ministers are sore
'Cause they can't kiss brides no more,
Now tickle the dear things with new-moon hay!

Oh, Mr. Shean, Oh, Mr. Shean!
There's danger in the Belmont meadows green.
Though he was dignified and old,
He had no right to be so bold!

Naughty, naughty, Mr. Gallagher!
It was Painful, Mr. Shean.

Try your hand at it. Send your lyrics to Gallagher & Shean, care of the Boston American, No. 80 Summer street, Boston, Mass.

TELL THIS AT DINNER

"Hallo! Is this the gas company?" shouted the man at the telephone.

"Yes."

"My gas bill for the last month is ten dollars."

"Well—"

"That is absurd—"

"Just one moment, please. In the first place, our men who read the meters are not in the habit of making mistakes."

"But, you see, we—"

"We employ capable fellows who know their business, and it is impossible for a mistake to be made. They hand in their figures after careful examination of the meter, and a competent office staff does the rest. If you were charged ten dollars for gas last month, you may be certain that you burned exactly that much and no more."

"But I wanted to—"

"There is no use declaring your house has been closed and you have been out of town. The bill will have to be paid or we will remove your meter."

"Oh, I'm perfectly willing to pay the ten dollars."

"Then what are you kicking about?"

"This is not a kick. I merely wanted to state that we burned gas, right and day during the month, owing to sickness, and that the bill should have been at least twenty dollars. Of course, if you don't want to correct it, I'm perfectly satisfied."
